DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. Claims 1-20 is cancelled and claims 21-38 are added per the preliminary amendment filed on May 31, 2005. Claims 21-38 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 21-38, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the method of generating an identifier, receiving the identifier and obtaining information regarding the identifier fails to produce useful, concrete and tangible result.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 21, 26, 27, 32 and 33, 38, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically it is not clear what the invention does after obtaining the information regarding the financial instrument (claims 21, 27 and 33). The claim phrase "meta-data" is not clear (claims 26, 32 and 38) and there is no antecedent basis for the claim phrase "meta-data" as claimed (claims 26, 32 and 38).

Art Unit: 3621

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 21-38, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Walker et al U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2006/0218097 A1.

As per claims 21, 27 and 33, Walker et al discloses a method of conducting a financial transaction, comprising:

generating an identifier for a financial instrument, the identifier identifying the financial instrument without disclosing information regarding the financial instrument (fig.

3B; ...device generates single credit card numbers...); receiving the identifier responsive to an initiation of the financial transaction (fig.

3B; ...cardholder transmits single use number to merchant...); and

Application/Control Number: 10/635,755

Art Unit: 3621

obtaining the information regarding the financial instrument based on the received identifier (fig. 3B; merchant provides credit card processor with single use credit card number...; fig. 5; ...information regarding the credit card...).

As per claims 22, 28 and 34, Walker et al further discloses the method, further comprising:

receiving a description of the financial transaction (fig. 3A; goods/services; 0009 ...transaction information...; 0022; ...transaction specific data...); and conducting the financial transaction using the information regarding the financial instrument (fig. 3A; ... authorization...; 3B; transaction authorization...).

As per claims 23, 29 and 35, Walker et al further discloses the method, further comprising:

generating, in response to obtaining the information regarding the financial instrument, a second identifier for the financial instrument to replace the previously-generated identifier, the second identifier different from the previously generated identifier and identifying the financial instrument without disclosing information regarding the financial instrument (fig. 6 and 8; 0062; 0063; 0064; 0091; ...different nonce...).

As per claim 24, 30, and 36, Walker et al further discloses the method, further comprising:

Application/Control Number: 10/635,755

Art Unit: 3621

executing a process having an execution path (fig. 3B; ...authentication path...); and determining from the execution path whether the process has access rights to the information regarding the financial instrument (fig. 3B; ...is access granted...).

As per claim 25, 31 and 37, Walker et al further discloses the method, wherein determining whether the process has access rights comprises:

establishing a resource allocation table, the table having entries having execution paths and specifying access rights of processes having the execution paths (figs. 3B and 13);

examining the entries of the resource allocation table to locate an entry having an execution path matching the execution path of the process (see fig. 9A; does number represent a valid account...; fig. 13, ...used or not used...); and determining from the matching entry whether the process has access rights to the information regarding the financial instrument (0066; if the match, then the credit card number is considered valid otherwise the transaction is aborted...).

As per claim 6, 32 and 38, Walker et al further discloses the method, wherein the entries of the resource allocation table uses meta-symbols to define execution paths, further comprising:

substituting the meta-data in the execution paths with data defined responsive to the process (0057; 0059; 0091).
